If you head to Cohoes, you'll notice many folks are putting their personal belongings up for sale. That's because the city is hosting its fifth annual city-wide garage sale Saturday.

So far over 50 families are involved in the event that's aimed at promoting the city and its history.

The garage sale is not only designed to bring the community together but also helps those who are looking to buy things for a good price.

The event will continue throughout the day.
